

Sales Outsourcing

Outsourcing your sales process means leaving your sales activities completely in the hands of an external company. In this case, Women in Sales' professionals take over your sales activities. This can mean the entire sales process or only part of it. Depending on what your organization's needs are, we will find a perfect match for every situation.

Sales Outsourcing by Women in Sales

Whether you want to save time or work more efficiently, outsourcing is a great solution in many cases. Reasons to consider Sales Outsourcing could be:

- Higher efficiency, which equals cost reduction
- Higher quality of sales because you are hiring a specialist
- More flexibility than when you have your own department
- Leave more time for you to focus on important core activities.

Whatever your reason may be, Women in Sales' female sales professionals will take (part of) your sales processes out of your hands and make sure everything runs smoothly.

Outsourcing benefits

Women in Sales matches professionals to your organization, for a long or short period of time. The biggest advantage of outsourcing is leaving the care of your sales activities in our hands. So you can focus on more important things. Why would you choose to outsource to Women in Sales?

Save time

With our expertise in sales we know exactly what's going on in the world of sales. If you choose to outsource to Women in Sales, you will reduce the time it takes to market new products and services.

Cost reduction

Besides saving time our expertise will also save you money. This small investment will quickly have your company market-ready.

Re-focus

While Women in Sales focusses on your sales, you can focus on research, development and production. You will keep focus on existing customers while Women in Sales focusses on new ones.

No more worrying about your sales-department

Women in Sales knows that sales departments can fluctuate. By outsourcing you won't have to worry about recruitment, selection and maintaining your workforce. We do all of this for you!

Outsourcing by Women in Sales

Our core approach is knowing the needs and wishes of your target audience, we combine this with knowledge of your product or service. Women in Sales knows there is no such thing as one size fits all when it comes to sales. An existing product can require a new approach when implemented into a new market, just like a new product that is implemented into your current market.

Women in sales can accommodate to your outsourcing needs in multiple ways:

Help you in setting up a legal entity

Women in Sales can help you set up a legal construction through which we can act as a complete and commercially capable member of your sales process.

Setting up workspaces

We take setting up new locations out of your hands. Such as arranging offices or meeting rooms.

Managing on site

Women in Sales manages your sales operations on site. This way, all aspects of the sales process are outsourced.

Selling based on outsourcing

We make sales for you based on outsourcing. This is only a small part of the Sales Outsourcing process. Women in Sales can also support other services that are necessary to position and implement your product of service into the market.
